KINNAIRD RESIGNS AS COUNTY AGENT

TO BE HEAD COLLEGE ANIMAL HUSBANDRY DEPARTMENT.

EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 1

Activities of Farm Bureau Notable Since He Was Appointed To Place April 1, 1921.

Roy A. Kinnaird, county agent of Nodaway County for the last four years, resigned his position last week to take effect September, to accept a position as head of the Animal Husbandry Division of the Agriculture Department of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College.

This announcement was made at the College this morning that Mr. Kinnaird has accepted the position in the Agriculture Department.

The Animal Husbandry Division of the College Agriculture Department has been enlarged this year, and beginning this fall the College Farm will be stocked with dairy cattle and chickens. W. W. Stanfield, who has been in the Agriculture Department, will be head of the Crops and Farm Division of the College Agriculture Department.

Uel W. Lamkin, president of the College, this morning in speaking of Mr. Kinnaird accepting the professorship of the Animal Husbandry Department, "I hope the people, not only of the county, but of Northwest Missouri, will make use of the services offered by Mr. Kinnaird in his new position at the College, and also of the services of the entire Agriculture Department." President Lamkin said that the College is indeed fortunate to secure the services of Mr. Kinnaird as the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri has been attempting to obtain Mr. Kinnaird on the faculty.

Mr. Kinnaird is recognized by the farmers of this county and by the Extension Service of the College of Agriculture, as the foremost county agent in the state of Missouri. His services to the county and to the farmers since he started in as county agent, April 1, 1920, have been efficient and valuable.

The executive board of the Nodaway County Farm Bureau will be in session Saturday afternoon to make arrangements for another agent to take Mr. Kinnaird's place. Roy Lippman, president at the present time of the Farm Bureau, said that the Bureau will secure an experienced county agent as soon as possible.

Mr. Kinnaird was graduated from the University of Missouri in 1913, with the degree of B. S. in Agriculture and the following year received a Master's degree in Agriculture. He taught in the Agriculture Department of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College for two years following his graduation of the University of Missouri. He then went back to the University where he taught two years in the Soils Department of the College of Agriculture and immediately following was county agent in Clinton County for two years. From Clinton County he come to Nodaway County upon the request of the Nodaway County Farm Bureau, which was organized in December of 1920 with 1,425 members. At that time John R. Evans was president and Roy Lippman, secretary-treasurer of the Farm Bureau.

The work of Mr. Kinnaird since his office as county agent of Nodaway County has been notable and the achievements many. He has become familiar with the farmers of the county; has aided the many communities for community work; and has put across many projects that have been beneficial, not only for the farmers, but also for the county at large.

Notable among the activities of the Farm Bureau under the direction of Mr. Kinnaird are:

Community organization; fight against orchard insects by an orchard spraying and pruning campaign which he has continued each year; a drive for better poultry, the wool pool; limestone and alfalfa projects; the organizations of Boys' and Girls' Pig Clubs and of the Calf Clubs in the county; wheat smut control; the publication of the Farm Bureau News for one year.

In 1921 the pork production demonstrations were conducted and continued more efficiently the following year. The same year this county was

GRAVEL ROAD BID IS STILL HELD UP

PROJECTS MAY NOT BE LET THIS YEAR.

MORE MONEY IS NEEDED

Unless People of Missouri Adopt Proposal No. 5, No Awards Will Be Made Next Year Either.

That the contract for the construction of the ten-mile gravel project between Maryville and Burlington Junction unless the the initiative proposals, especially No. 5, are adopted in November, may not be let this year, is inferred from a dispatch from Jefferson City today.

Contracts for thirty-five road projects and twenty-nine small bridges will be bid on August 12, according to B. H. Piepmeier, chief highway engineer, and he said this letting would be the last large one this year unless the people adopted proposal No. 5 at the November election. The cost of the work provided in these contracts will be approximately two million dollars, it is estimated. The project between Maryville and Burlington Junction is not included in the August 12 lettings. Four miles of grading in Buchanan County between Saxton and Gower and the same amount of grading in Andrew County between St. Joseph and Avenue City, is provided in the August lettings. Buchanan County gets a small bridge. Andrew County will have three small bridges under the contracts.

This will complete the awards this year, Mr. Piepmeier said, except for a small letting to clean up the "loose ends," which probably will be late in August. Unless proposal No. 5 is adopted, there will be no lettings next year, either, Mr. Piepmeier said, adding in explanation the commission had contracted for sufficient projects to use up all available funds for the next year or two.

The Cook-O'Brien Construction Co., of Kansas City which has done considerable paving work in Maryville, received the contract for five miles of grading in Linn County, bidding $53,740.

NO MORE PLATES AFTER TOMORROW

AUTO CLUB TO DISCONTINUE ISSUANCE.

OVER 5000 ARE SOLD

And $37,333 Has Been Received By Maryville Division Since Office Was Opened February 1.

After issuing more than 5,000 passenger car plates and 300 truck plates since the office was opened February 1, the Maryville division of the Automobile Club of Missouri will discontinue the issuance of license plates on August 1, Lawrence Schumacher, local manager, announced today.

A total of $37,333 has been taken in by the Maryville office in the six months it has been doing business, Mr. Schumacher said.

All offices in Missouri with the exception of the St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph branches will discontinue the issuance of license plates on August 1, but will probably resume this business on January 1 next year.

Beginning Friday, the Maryville division will assist motor car and truck owners in filling out applications, making deeds, and fixing up titles, all of which will be mailed in to Jefferson City and the license plates sent out from the capital city. The local office will also continue to serve the tourists and residents in furnishing road information to various points in the United States. This is one of the services rendered by the Automobile Club of Missouri to the traveling public.

The following letter from O. G. Steininger, commissioner of motor vehicles, was received by Mr. Schumacher today:

"All branch offices that were established this year will be closed on the first of August, as the demand for license plates is very light, and tags will go forward to the applicants the same day on which the applications are received."

Confusion Reigns as Exams are on at College Today

"How'd you hit it?"

"Was it hard?"

'I've got the writers cramp."

"I knocked it right in the nose."

Euch expressions as these form the main topic of conversation at the State Teachers College today, for the College is a scene of ultra-confusion as the 1500 students are taking their final examinations.

Probably the busiest place in town is the College book store, where refunds for textbooks are being made. Collarless and perspiring, "Abie" Blomfield and "Peepa" Peoples, athletic clerks in the store, are doling out receipts and looking with a certain anguish at the long line of men and women that stretches out the door and far down the hall.

As is always the case, instructors are being bothered with such questions as "Will I pass?" or "What is my grade?"

And to crown it all, in an examination this morning, one woman well past the age that distinguished the young bud from the spinster, popped out with the worn-out, third grade question, "Shall we write on both sides of the paper?"

LIBRARY WILL BE REPAIRED IN AUGUST

TO BE CLOSED BEGINNING NEXT WEEK, FOR DECORATING.

NEW HEATING SYSTEM

Is Proposed For Building Which Houses Library and City Hall—City Council In Session.

The Maryville Free Public Library will be closed beginning next week for the entire month of August, Mayor W. O. Garrett, said this morning, for the purpose of making repairs and decorating the library and to install a new heating plant. The City Council discussed various heating systems proposed for heating the City Hall and library at a meeting last evening and will meet at an adjourned session Friday night to decide definitely what heating system should be installed.

It has been planned for some time to make repairs in the library rooms and the most convenient time to close the building upstairs so that work could be done was thought to be during the month of August when there is no school, either at the College and at the High School, as the City Library is used extensively by students of both institutions.

The library rooms may be re-arranged to make the reading rooms more convenient for the readers, the walls and ceiling re-decorated and more up-to-date stack facilities provided. The roof of the library may also be repaired, Mayor Garrett thought some time ago.

The City Council refused the application of Walter Mutz to erect a small frame building on the north side of his building, corner of Third and Main streets, that he proposed to be built between the side walk and the brick building. The purpose of the structure would be to house a pop corn and peanut stand.

The City Council approved the contract and bond of Hugh Devlin of St. Joseph for the laying of sewer pipe on Lincoln and Mulberry streets.

WHEAT SHIPMENTS BREAK OLD RECORD

912 CARS ARE RECEIVED ON K. C. MARKET.

PRICE IS LOWER TODAY

Decline of 2 to 5 Cents Follows Reports of Unfavorable Liverpool Quotations and Good Weather in Canada.

Kansas City, July 30.—Wheat receipts in Kansas City today broke all single day records for several years.

The record today was 912 cars which exceeded that of any other single day for several years except Mondays, which are regarded as double day shipments, Sunday receipts being credited to the total of Monday.

The effect of the large shipments was to lower the car-load price of wheat from 2 to 5 cents.

In speculative trading there was a decline today because of unfavorable prices in the Liverpool market and better weather in Canada.

Much Sunshine During Past Week in State

Generally Speaking, It Was Warmest and Driest Period Since First of Present Month.

Except one to two inches of rain in the extreme southeastern part of the State, the week ending Tuesday morning, July 29th, in Missouri was characterized by much sunshine, seasonable warmth, and very light and scattered showers. The week as a whole was the warmest and driest since the first of July. The sunshine was more than 80 per cent of the normal, but there was no extreme heat, the afternoon temperatures exceeding 90 degrees only on two or three dates. Except in the extreme southeastern counties the weather was very favorable for all growing crops and generally so for farm work.

The corn crop as a whole, although about two weeks behind the usual advancement for the last days of July, continued to make marked improvement, and is entering the tasselling stage generally. Most upland corn is in good to very good condition; most lowlands are reported to be too grassy. Some of the recently overflowed bottom lands of the Osage and Grand Rivers, and also in the extreme southeast have been abandoned.

Wheat threshing is underway but not yet general. Owing to the rather high state of humidity wheat is too damp for satisfactory threshing; in the southeast counties some wheat is sprouting in the shock. In the mean-time farmers have been busy cultivating row crops, harvesting oats and hay and doing considerable fallow plowing.

Pastures, grain sorghums, truck crops and fruits were favorably affected by the week's weather. The honey crop at Avalon, Livingston County, is very fine.

In the Southeast the weather was rather unfavorable for cotton. In low fields it has been badly damaged by excess water; some farmers have lost entire crop. On the other hand there is much fine cotton, blooming profusely in the best fields, and bolls are growing rapidly.

The members of the county court, Judges E. T. Bailey, Charles Armstrong and C. E. Walker, convened in Maryville today on account of the fact these commissioners were to be appointed.

The six aviators, traveling in three planes, left Brough at 10:25 o'clock for Kirkwell in the Orkney Island, off Scotland. Except for a slight fog which grew heavier as the day progressed, the weather conditions were favorable.

The Americans planned to rest over night at Kirkwall, replenish their supplies, and if weather conditions are good they will leave tomorrow for Iceland.

ADMITS TESTIMONY REGARDING SANITY

DEFENSE WINS FIRST VICTORY IN FRANKS TRIAL.

STATE IN QUICK FINISH

Rests Case Within Two Minutes After Court Opens Today—State in Desperate Fight.

Chicago, July 30.—Nathan E. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb won their first legal engagement today in the efforts of the wealthy families are making to save them from going to the gallows for the murder of little Bobby Franks.

Judge John R. Caverly, sitting as the sole judge of their fate, ruled that their attorneys could put on the stand alienists and men of medical science to testify concerning the mental, moral and pathological character of the two collegians.

The state rested its case within two minutes after court opened this morning and the defense promptly put on the witness stand Dr. William A. White of Washington.

No sooner had he taken the stand than state's attorney, Crowe was on his feet, his face flushed, and speaking rapidly, he protested vigorously against "any testimony in this trial touching upon the sanity or insanity of these defendants."

"Overruled," said Judge Caverly, mechanically.

Crowe, however, continued his protest against the alienists' testimony.

"Under the law," the attorney declared, "a man is either sane or insane. If it is conceded, for the sake of argument, that insanity is a defense in this case, have these boys any right to a defense in view of their plea of guilty? Have they the right to introduce testimony bearing upon their mental state?"

The state's attorney contended that under the law of Illinois, there was no other alternative for the court but to call a jury if the alienists were to be allowed to describe "these murderers as abnormal, queer and of twisted moral and mental state."

When the afternoon session began, state's attorney, Crowe and defense attorneys were called to the bench by Judge Caverly and he addressed them in low tones, almost confidential.

"I am still of the opinion, gentlemen," he said, "that I should hear this evidence and then when I hear it I can decide on its competency. I might order stricken out all the testimoney of one doctor, two doctors, or all of them as far as that goes."

Senator Reed Calls Down Senator Spencer

Hot Reply Indicates Support of Democratic Ticket—Reed Still Sick.

Kansas City, Mo., July 30.—Senator James A. Reed from his sickroom at the Hotel Muehlebach yesterday issued a statement answering the statement made yesterday in Washington by Senator Spencer to President Coolidge that Reed "might" support La Follette.

The senator's statement was taken as the first indication Reed might support the Democratic national ticket.

"I notice," said Reed, "that Spencer has told the President what he believes I am going to do. Several times he has undertaken to tell the public what he believed I was going to do.

"In this respect I differ from him. I would not undertake to prophesy what Spencer would do, because nobody on God's earth could form any kind of opinion as to what he might do on any given subject, except that judging by his past performances it would be reasonably safe to assume that if there is hereafter discovered anywhere a political or public crook Spencer will be found appearing in his defense.

"In this regard alone has he been consistent. He wept when Newberry was about to be ousted; protested vehemently in favor of Denby; he appeared as the self appointed champion of Daugherty. His quality as a prophet is as unreliable as his judgment regarding political crooks.

"The worst thing I have heard about the Coolidge campaign is that it seems to have gotten out that Spencer's advice has been sought.

"Nobody who knows my party record will be deceived by any statement made by Spencer.

"I fear my references to Spencer may seem a little severe. Perhaps I have overlooked the charities and generosities which ought to be extended to one possessing his feminine arts and graces."

A. W. NELSON

of Cooper County

Candidate for

Democratic Nomination for GOVERNOR!

NOMINATE A WINNER

THE Democrats will make no mistake in nominating Dr. A. W. Nelson. He is a sure winner in November. He is free from all factional differences, has no political past to apologize for, and has no "entanglements." He is one behind whom all Democrats can unite and one the rural people are bound to favor.

Made a Clean Campaign

Dr. Nelson has made a clean campaign, discussing only the real issues and relying upon his own merits. He has refused to be drawn into a campaign of personalities and abuse. He has contributed in no way to causing friction within the party or to creating sore-spots that will be difficult to heal. He has avoided everything that would tend to destroy party harmony. Anyone having the slightest inclination to vote the Democratic ticket in November can give him his enthusiastic support. He is the logical candidate.

Dr. A. W. Nelson lives on his farm, on which he was born, 7 miles from Bunceton. He is 46 years old and a graduate in medicine, but has never been active in the practice of that profession. Since completion of his education in 1901 he has been actively engaged in farming. He is president of the Bank of Bunceton and a director in the Boonville National Bank, but is not active in the management of either. He devotes his entire time to farming.

Nelson is a farmer and interested in farm organization. He is a member of the Bethlehem Farm Club in Cooper County and at one time was president of the Cooper County Farm Bureau.

NELSON STANDS FOR—Relief for the farmer from financial distress; development of Missouri manufacturing and industry; a square deal for labor, the laborer being the farmer's best customer.

HE STANDS FOR—Economy in state government; reduction of taxes on farm lands by reducing valuation for taxation purposes, for good roads in Missouri, and for the earliest possible completion of Missouri's highway program consistent with efficiency and economy in administration; for every improvement in our educational system possible.

Prepared and paid for by the Nelson for Governor Committee of Jefferson City

DR. NELSON IS A STRONG MAN

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR IS HIGHLY CAPABLE.

BACK TO FARM LONG AGO

Lives Simple, Busy Life on His Big Farm Which He Has Made Profitable.

E. J. Melton in the Republican Caruthersville, Mo., July 3, 1924).

At a noonday luncheon of the Rotary of Caruthersville, just after the national Republican convention and just before the Democratic pow-wow in New York, several Rotarians talked politics informally during the repast.

Frank Dillman, head of the Dillman Egg Case factory, Caruthersville's biggest industry, said:

"Americans carry politics too far. We are too partisan. Because I am a Republican is no reason why I should not be interested in the Democrats having the best possible nominee. If both parties have high class candidates the country will be in safe hands regardless of political fortunes."

That is what the editor of this paper believes. Men clean and qualified for the job should be the only kind on either ticket whether they seek to be constable or president.

Only An American's Right.

Patriotism should have precedence over partisanhsip and we claim the right to speak a good word for a good Democrat in the hope that Dr. Arthur W. Nelson of Bunceton may receive the Democratic nomination for governor of Missouri.

In the event of his nomination the Democrats would have a good and capable candidate. The Republicans have several good men to pick from and we are not worrying about them selecting high class timber.

Having lived in the same county with Dr. Nelson for several years and knowing him personally, we feel qualified to speak with a degree of authority. Someone has aptly said he is "a farmer business men need not fear and a business man farmers can rely upon."

He is a man unspoiled by wealth. Money is a power for good or evil. Dr. Nelson uses his riches sensibly in the interest of better agriculture and general advancement of community life. He could just as easily use it for selfish ends or for destructive purposes if his motives were prompted by general cussedness.

Back to the Farm Long Ago.

Dr. Nelson started a back to the farm movement all his own long before that doctrine was generally preached. He was born on an ancestral estate in Cooper County. When he was about 18 months old his father died. When he was seven years old he was living in the governor's mansion in Jefferson City. His mother was mistress of the mansion. His great uncle, John S. Marmaduke, a bachelor was governor. Later he attended school in Kansas City and then was graduated from Sewanee University at Sewanee, Tenn., after which he took a post graduate course in medicine in New York City.

Leaving the farm in infancy, the average boy is easily weaned away from pastoral pursuits and rural life. But Dr. Nelson wasn't an average boy. Tall buildings and bright lights had little appeal for him. He had no hankering for an artificial existance in a human bee hive. He preferred the quiet country and its plain honest home folks rather than a great population center where women have soft hands and hard faces and Anias and Alibi ride in gum-shod limousines while Mary Smith of the pure heart walks on broken shoes over the rough pavement.

On Farm 23 Years.

So in 1901 at the conclusion of his post graduate work in medicine, he went from the biggest city in the country back to the farm of his birth with the nearest town eight miles away and about eight hundred population. There he has lived and labored for twenty-three years, building up one of the finest farms in the country and some of the finest herds of live stock in the land. Until now he has sought no office and has lived a modest and retiring life so far as state politics is concerned, although he has taken an active part in civic and community affairs and has had varied and valuable business experience. He is president of the Bank of Bunceton and is chairman of the board of directors of the Boonville National Bank.

Several years ago he started an interesting experiment with tubercular Shorthorn cattle. By his extended experiment over a period of nearly six years he has proven his contention that tuberculosis in cattle, as in humans is not hereditary, thus contributing valuable information to scientific agriculture.

Dr. Nelson conducts his farm personally. He is a real dirt farmer. Because of the size of his holdings he has to employ considerable help, of course. There are plenty of men who can't make money on a big farm these days. The breaking up of many large estates has followed in the wake of high prices of labor and comparatively low prices for farm products. Be it said to the credit of Dr. Nelson that his business-like conduct of his holdings has made his back to the soil movement highly successful and satisfactory not only to himself and his hospitable family but to the community in which they live.

A Good Neighbor.

The neighborhood is better off because Dr. Nelson packed his medicine kit from New York City to the old home farm in Missouri. The people in Bunceton and Boonville and the countryside between will tell you that "Doc" Nelson, as they call him is a good neighbor and a valuable citizen. He borrows and loans farm machinery. His farm is excellently equipped but there are emergencies when borrowing equipment saves losses. We know of one Cooper County farmer who had twenty men at work on his farm filling a silo when his corn binder broke. Dr. Nelson had two corn binders and immediately sent both over to him.

Dr. Nelson doesn't practice medicine but several years ago when a little girl in the neighborhood became ill "Doc" Nelson treated her until she was out of danger, and in emergency cases in the neighborhood he is always ready to play the role of the good Symaritan.

Today the rural church is declining. Dr. Nelson's community is no exception. And when the congregation quit employing a regular pastor Dr. Nelson helped out by teaching the men's Bible class. In Boonville, some miles away, one of the finest Methodist churches in Missouri is named Nelson Memorial Church in memory of Dr. Nelson's mother who, with Dr. Nelson, contributed liberally to its erection and equipment.

Plain Folks of Gentle Breeding.

The writer visited Dr. Nelson's farm twice on tours with the Cooper County Shorthorn Association. Because the day's schedule was heavy we tarried only long enough to inspect his fine herds. We were not guests in his home. But we know that while his home is large and convenient there is no undue luxury, no livered servants and no formality. As editor of a Boonville paper the writer has edited many pieces of copy by the paper's reporters telling of parties to which the whole community was invited to Eastwood Farms, the Doctor's fine estate.

Dr. Nelson is of an old and distinguished family. His maternal great grandfather, M. M. Marmaduke, was governor of Missouri in 1840. John S. Marmaduke, governor of our state after the Civil War, was the Doctor's great uncle. Dr. Nelson's achievements are in keeping with a distinguished ancestry. He is well educated, keeps abreast the times, is practical and refined. He has a strong, yet pleasing personality and is the type of man that inspires confidence. He approaches closely the ideal voiced in a couplet from Kipling's "If" :

"If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings nor lose the common touch.

In other words, he isn't chaff driven hither and thither by the wind. He steers his own course, unpreturbed by cross currents. He has character that puts his personality above enviroment.

If this little word of ours will help our Democratic friends to see the light we feel that it has not been in vain. We would like to see the very best men nominated on both party tickets because, like Frank Dillman, we don't want politics to be merely a pie eating contest.

We sauntered into an apothecarys shop, writes the Atchison, Kan., Globe.

"Do you keep stamps?' we asked with all gentleness.

"This ain't the postoffice," the clerk snapped.

A few minutes later a very pretty young lady entered the same store and demurely asked, "May I have two stamps please?'

"Certainly," replied the clerk, who didn't even charge her for them.

Now, get us, we are not criticizing the clerk.

We are merely telling you that good looks are an asset.

Because these banks believe in the slogan of "Clover and Prosperity." Soil fertility and bank deposits have much in common. The same law applies to both—they dwindle unless new deposits are made. More clover, sweet clover, alfalfa and soybeans in Nodaway County will increase the bank deposits as well as the fertility in the soil. These banks will be represented at the Clover and Prosperity picnics. We hope your farm will be represented, too.

Pageant Will Dedicate Long-Bell Lumber Plant

Thirty-Four Acres of Roof Cover Mills; One Log Pond of 125 Acres.

Longview, Wash., July 30.—Completion of the lumber manufacturing plants of the Long-Bell Lumber Company, at Longview, representing one of the largest construction projects ever undertaken in the Northwest, will be marked by a four-day "Pageant of Progress" to be held in Longview on July 31, August 1, 2, and 3. The first day will be "Long-Bell Day," marked by the opening of the plants, and the next three days will be devoted to a civic celebration of the first anniversary of the city of Longview, which was dedicated in July, one year ago.

Included in the events will be a round-up, in which well-known rodeo performers of the Northwest will participate; water carnivals, featuring hydroplane and cruiser races; a daily program of loggers' sports; daily inspection of the gigantic lumber manufacturing plants; an industrial parade, in which industrial concerns and civic organizations from all parts of the Northwest have been invited to participate; a nightly program of fireworks, Mardi Gras and carnival of gayety, speeches, band concerts and airplane events. On Sunday two addresses by W. A. ("Billy") Sunday, with music furnished by a large choir will be features.

Of special interest to visitors will be the opportunity to inspect the huge Long-Bell Mills, representing, as they do, one of the largest lumber manufacturing plants in the world. Some idea of the immensity of the plants can be had in the fact that thirty-four acres of roofing were required to cover the buildings of the main manufacturing units. On the Columbia River are lumber export docks, with a berthing length of 1,400 feet, equipped with one of the largest commercially operated cranes in the nation. The mills represent the highest development in the application of electricity to lumber manufacturing operations. Electrical energy is supplied by a huge fireproof power plant, which will have an ultimate generating capacity of 36,000 kilowatts. The eight 1,200 horsepower boilers of this plant will be fired by hogged fuel converted from the refuse of the manufacturing units. The power plant has two stacks, each 300 feet high and 21 feet in diameter inside at the top. Other large units of the industrial layout are two log ponds, one of 25 acres in size and the other covering 125 acres; a lumber storage yard of 44 acres in area, traversed by approximately 30 miles of railroad.

The celebration is being advertised from Canada to California, through Washington, Oregon, Utah, Montana and Colorado. Railroads have announced that special fares will be in effect in Oregon, Washington and Northern Idaho for the event. Among the visitors to Longview at the time of the mill opening will be directors of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, who have chosen Longview as their convention center during the week of the celebration.

ENCOURAGING OR RESTRICTING SPECULATION.

Do not the Stock Exchange members encourage unwarranted speculation by many people who cannot afford to and therefore should not indulge in margin stock trading?

a. By colorful descriptions of industrial companies in "house organs?"

b. By maintaining "branch offices" where the man with only a few dollars is induced to go beyond his depth?

c. By the activities of "customers' men" who urge the buying of speculative stocks in order to earn commissions?

An examination of the Constitution of the New York Stock Exchange readily reveals the fact that the Exchange has for many years consistently forbidden its members to unduly encourage the public to speculate in securities. Exchange rules of long standing prescribe minimum rates of commission which cannot be lowered by members in a dangerous and excessive competition for business. Adequate margin in all cases is required. Advertising by member-firms is rigidly restricted and frequently censored, to avoid anything resembling the publication of tips or unfounded rumors, likely to affect market prices. Moreover, it should be recognized that stock brokers' losses through bad accounts may at any time greatly exceed the small commissions charged upon Exchange transactions. If only for their own safety, Exchange members cannot afford to accept business likely to impose such heavy losses upon themselves.

Until the millenium arrives and we find ourselves living in Utopia it will of course be in practice impossible for the Exchange to enforce many of these restrictions to absolute perfection. Furthermore, the Stock Exchange cannot and should not even attempt to assume the function of determining who should or should not speculate or of denying the facilities of its free and open securities market to the public on any theoretical or arbitrary basis. Nevertheless, it is a matter of record that the Exchange not only wishes to avoid facilitating unwarranted speculation, whether by its own members or the public, but has exercised its powers of discipline over its members in this connection consistently and severely.

Sometimes Too Optimistic.

a. There is some justice in the charge that "house organs" and market letters of Exchange firms occasionally indulge in "colorful descriptions of industrial companies" which are not ultimately warranted by the facts. But unless misinformation is thereby conveyed, such "descriptions" are after all only opinion, and should be accepted as such by their readers. In any case, such "market letters" go almost entirely to established customers of the issuing firm, and are therefore in the nature of private correspondence rather than public advertisements.

Undue optimism often leads to financial losses in any business, and is a tendency which exists throughout all American business. If overconfidence in the future of American business is a crime, the whole American people must be indicted. Undoubtedly stockbrokers, like everyone else, err occasionally in this direction. Yet the harm done by brokers' opinions is small compared with that sometimes done by corporate executives who during industrial depressions issue misleadingly cheerful statements. Neither the New York Stock Exchange nor any similar organization in the world can undertake to pass upon the correctness of opinions or prophecies regarding the future. But the Exchange provides such punishment for its members in cases involving the spreading of mere rumors designed to affect market prices. It makes every compatible with its actual powers in the really fundamental matter of seeing that frequent and complete financial and earning statements of listed corporations are made available to everyone through the press.

Branch Offices Absolved.

b. The maintenance of branch offices is not in itself any more likely to result in "unwarranted speculation" than that of any other type of office dealing in or handling transactions in securities. As far as the customer in an Exchange branch office is concerned, a branch office manager may through self-interest take his part in any misunderstanding with the Exchange, even when such an attitude is quite unjustified. It is naturally true that in an organization like the New York Stock Exchange system, with branches all over the country, a few branch office managers may fail adequately to understand the Exchange's machinery and its rules, or to explain them clearly to customers. In order to rectify possible unfortunate cases of public misunderstanding from this source, the Exchange in recent years has held annual conventions in New York for out-of-town partners and branch office managers, with the purpose of informing them at first hand concerning the operations, rules and standards of commercial practice which it maintains.

c. Brokerage firms are engaged in the business of selling service to their clients; as in almost every other business, this work requires salesmen, who are known as "customers' men." Thus far, certainly, no especial fault can reasonably be found with the brokerage business. Undoubtedly "customers' men" have the same desire to secure business as other salesmen, and sometimes the same tendency to show more enthusiasm than exact knowledge or wise judgment. Of course, Exchange houses should and mainly do clearly recognize the necessity of carefully supervising the work of their "customers' men" in their own interest and that of the public dards are by no means such as to deserve careless or sweeping denunciation.

It is a fact that most customers who open an account with a broker do so to speculate rather than invest. The 'customers' men' cannot alter this old tendency, which only reflects the swift progress of our country, and the inevitably rapid changes of value in our business enterprises, compared with older, poorer and less progressive countries. In any case, the "customers' man" who consistently urged clients into unusually speculative transactions would under the laws of the Exchange receive no part of the resulting commission himself, and would not last long in his vocation.

MOVING PICTURES
EMPIRE THEATRE.

"Moral Sinner," a striking picturization of the stage play "Leah Kleschna," in which Mrs. Fiske's, America's greatest dramatic actress, will be shown at the Empire tonight and tomorrow night. It is generally considered the daddy of all love melodramas of the Paris underworld.

"The Moral Sinner" offers Dorothy Dalton in the type of role the public loves to see her in—the alluring, daring queen of the Apaches. Stirring action and gripping heart-appeal have been neatly blended by Ralph Ince in an elaborate production which will make good money in any type of house.

The cream of the acting talent on the New York stage—and that means the pick of the world—appears in support of the star. James Rennie, hero of "His Children's Children," plays opposite Miss Dalton in this picture, and Paul McAllister, seen in "You Can't Fool Your Wife" and "Peter Ibbetson," has a prominent role. Ralph Ince, the man who made "Homeward Bound," with Thomas Meighan, directed.

This is in every respect a high class melodrama that the average audience will eat alive.

Rockne Picks Nebraska to Win 1924 Grid Title

Los Angeles, July 30.—University of Nebraska will more than likely boast the champion football team of the country this Fall.

This is the opinion of Knute Rockne famous coach of Notre Dame, who is here giving instruction in football at the University of Southern California School for Coaches.

The Cornhuskers have a system of getting prep stars that is without comparison, according to Rockne, and material at the university is the finest in the country.

Rockne predicts the closest race in history in the Big Ten conference.

Chicago, Minnesota, Illinois and Michigan will be the teams to fight it out, according to the Notre Dame mentor.

"Iowa has great potential strength, but Iowa will greatly miss Coach Howard Jones for a couple of years until the system of their new coach is instilled at the school," said Rockne.

He eliminates Iowa as having little chance to cop Big Ten honors this Fall, and in the same class Rockne places Purdue, Indiana and Northwestern.

Ohio State is not "up to much" this season the Notre Dame coach asserted, and Chicago will probably have a strong team but "flivver" when defeat is most unexpected.

"Coach Ryan, at Wisconsin, has a splendid crew this year," said Rockne. "And I look for Ryan to turn out a fine team. Yost, at Michigan, and Zuppke, at Illinois, are certainly to be most feared."

Rockne is pleased with chances of Notre Dame having a winning season in 1924. He is developing some new plays which are said to be sensational and are far afield from anything ever seen in football at the Catholic institution.

Wish To Learn of Machinery and Activities Local Organization To Aid Their Own Organization.

Evidencing the fact that the Maryville Chamber of Commerce is one of the outstanding organizations of its kind in the state, secretaries of various Chambers of Commerce in this state, are writing in expressing a desire to visit the local Chamber of Commerce.

They express a wish to come here to visit the Maryville organization to learn of its machinery and activities in order to aid them in their work at their own cities as Maryville's Chamber of Commerce has a state-wide reputation. L. H. Brownfield, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, said this morning that letters are received almost daily from secretaries of such organizations throughout the state.

In the last two weeks five letters of like nature were received by him.

To cite how Mr. Brownfield makes a reply to the inquiries from the secretaries of other Chambers of Commerce, the following is an example:

Dear Sir:

Your short letter of the 28th has been received and I am indeed pleased to know that you are contemplating a trip to Maryville in the near future. I confidently believe that your visit here will be worth while to you, as it is a fact that the Maryville Chamber of Commerce is one of the outstanding organizations in the state, it has had great success for many years and this organization is now enjoying its eighteenth year of existence. I feel that if you can conveniently stay two or three days when you come, that what you may learn in this little city, together with what little I am in position to tell you, I feel it will be a great help to you in the work at———.

LAMKIN TALKS OF COLLEGE'S FUTURE

PLAN MANY PHYSICAL IMPROVEMENTS NEXT WINTER.

GYM ACCOMMODATIONS

Will Be Greatly Facilitated—Old Gymnasiums Will Be Used for Stack and Reading Rooms.

Uel W. Lamkin, president of the State Teachers College, gave a talk to the students of the College at the regular assembly held this morning. President Lamkin's talk concerned the future of the College and of the improvements which are planned for the coming year.

"The College will rest its claim upon the present faculty," said President Lamkin this morning, "But we plan to make many physical improvements for accommodations to the students this winter and next summer."

President Lamkin told the students of the tentative plans for the new gymnasium floor will hold a maxivarious members of the faculty. The gymnasuum floor will hold a maximum size basketball court and there will be seating arrangements along the side to accommodate about 1400 people. Extra seats can be placed at the ends of the court which will take care of 500 more people. In addition to this a platform can be placed in the center of the court and conventions and meetings be held and more than 2,000 persons accommodated.

According to the tentative plans which were viewed a swimming pool is to be placed on the first floor and ample locker rooms, showers, and office rooms will be provided. Lockers will be provided for 1400 students.

It is planned to use the two old gymnasiums for stack rooms and reading rooms which will be sub-libraries to the main library which is located on the second floor.

The new plans also call for a lighting system which will illuminate the entire campus. The electricity will be supplied by the College power plant. As soon as the lighting system has been perfected and the libraries arranged in the two old gymnasiums rooms the library will be opened at nights for study purposes, according to President Lamkin.

New equipment has already been purchased for the chemistry and physics laboratories and will be installed next fall. The new equipment will more than double the capacity of these departments.

There will be several teachers absent next fall who have previously been connected with the College faculty. Mrs. Ann Leonard Munger has resigned. Mrs. Mary Wooldridge Vogt who has been in charge of the cafeteria for the past three years, has resigned.

Ernest Daniels, who has been teaching at Liberty for the past two years, will succeed Howard Leech as assistant manual training instructor. Mr. Leech has taken a position as superintendent of the Rock Port High School. Roy Kinnaird will be an addition to the agriculture department of the College.
